U.S.D.A. CLUB

A LETTER FROM THE PRESIDENT

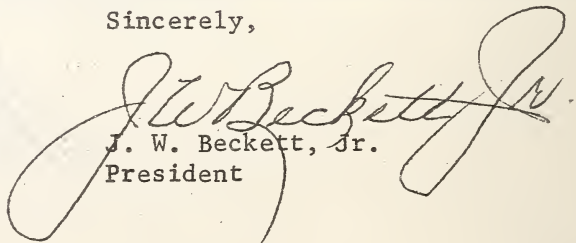

I would like to take this opportunity to express my sincere appreciation to the directors for having elected me to the office of President of the Dallas U.S.D.A. Club. I will do my utmost to uphold the confidence you have expressed in me, and will endeavor to keep up the good work of our past President, Mr. Glenn P. Hass. He is to be commended for a job well done.

To the new officers, directors, alternates, and those of you who have been selected to head our various committees, I sincerely welcome you. I think you will find that being an officer of the Club fun; and being a member of the Board of Directors is an honor. But means work too. It takes a lot of planning and hard work to make our club function properly. The benefits derived through our sponsorship does not just happen. Work does it.

The retiring slate of officers and directors have set a good example for us in this respect. Let's keep up the good work and make our club one that we will be proud of.

Sincerely,

TO YOUR HEALTH

A recent amendment to Safety Policy in Administrative Regulations, Title 8, provides for the installation and use of safety belts in all Department-owned motor vehicles. Regarding personally-owned vehicles, the following statement is included in the amendment:

"All Department employees, particularly those who drive personally-owned vehicles in the performance of their official duties are urged to install seat belts in their own vehicles, wear them at all times when riding in vehicles so equipped and urge their families and friends to do likewise."

The National Safety Council offers answers to objections to seat belts as given below:

Most of my trips are local - A survey showed that 47 per cent of all car deaths occurred at speeds below 40 mph and 66 per cent took place within 25 miles of the driver's home.

Seat belts would be dangerous if my car caught fire or went off the road into water - Cornell University reports that fire occurs in only 2/10 of one per cent of injury-producing accidents. Only 3/10 of one per cent involve submersion under water. Chances are much better that a belted passenger will remain conscious and be able to get out of the car.

Seat belts are uncomfortable - Studies show that in distance driving, seat belts actually help posture and reduce fatigue.

It's too much trouble to be always fastening and unfastening them - Belts can be fastened in two seconds flat and loosened with a flick of the wrist.

Seat belts are expensive - This is a relative question and depends on how much value you place on life and limb.

-Jean Morgan, R. N.

Allen Smith, our Horizon Chaser from ASCS, writes from Paris that he has driven 5,000 miles in France, and he was to spend June in Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Finland. Allen left the U. S. February 1 on a 2-year trip around the world.

Please accept my thanks for the many courtesies extended to me during the 1961 club year as your president.

- Glenn P. Hass

NEWS FROM MILK MARKETING

Byford W. Bain of Dallas has been named Milk Marketing Administrator for the Texas Panhandle Milk Order, effective July 1.

Mr. Bain also administers the North Texas, Central West Texas, and Lubbock-Plainview, Texas milk orders. The Texas Panhandle marketing order was previously administered by Earl C. Born, who transferred to Albuquerque, N.M., as administrator of the Rio Grande Valley order, a new order which becomes fully effective July 1.

Mr. Bain has administered the North Texas order since 1951, the Central West Texas since 1952, and the Lubbock-Plainview order since June 1962.

- - - - -

The Federal milk marketing order regulating the handling of milk in the Lubbock-Plainview, Texas, area went into effect June 1 except for pricing and payment provisions which will become effective July 1, 1962. Eighty-six per cent of the area producers voting in the referendum approved issuance of the Federal milk marketing order. There were 100 producers who voted in favor of the issuance of the order out of a total of 115 votes that were cast.

The marketing area, as defined under the order, includes the Texas counties of Bailey, Castro, Cochran, Cottle, Crosby, Dickens, Floyd, Gaines, Garza, Hale, Hockley, Lamb, Lubbock, Lynn, Motley, Terry, and Yoakum. The two major cities in the area are Lubbock and Plainview.

The order provides for classifying and pricing milk in two classes (Class I and Class II) according to the use made of the milk. The Class I price will be the North Texas Class I price plus 10 cents per hundredweight with differentials based on where the milk is delivered. The Class II price will be based on the same butter-powder formula as other nearby Federal Order Class II prices.

A "market-wide pool" will be operated as a means for distributing returns to producers. A base-excess plan will be utilized for figuring uniform prices to producers during March through June beginning with 1963. The base-forming months will be September through December each year.

The order is based on evidence received at a hearing held in Lubbock, Texas, June 6-10, 1961. Copies of the Lubbock-Plainview order may be obtained from the Milk Marketing Orders Division, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C. or from the Market Administrator, P. O. Box 35225, Airlawn Station, Dallas, Texas.

EMPLOYEES RECEIVE NATIONAL CITATIONS

Meet Harold C. Bryson and Truman J. Cunningham, the elite members of the USDA family in Dallas.

They were singled out for Superior Service Awards by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman in national ceremonies May 18 on the Washington Monument Grounds, Washington, D. C.

Bryson is Chief of the Southwest Area Information Office for AMS, while Cunningham is Deputy Director of the Dallas ASCS Commodity Office.

Basis for Bryson's citation was his leadership and initiative in directing AMS and USDA information programs and gaining a greater public understanding for them in the seven-state southwest area.

Cunningham was cited for his leadership and initiative in carrying on effectively and economically the many diverse programs of Commodity Credit Corporation in the 12-state area served by the Dallas Commodity Office.

Both are experts in their chosen fields. They previously had been presented Certificates of Merit and cash awards by their agencies in recognition of their skills.

Bryson Comes from Texas

A native Texan, Bryson came to the Southwest Area Information Office in 1944 and has been Chief for the past ten years.

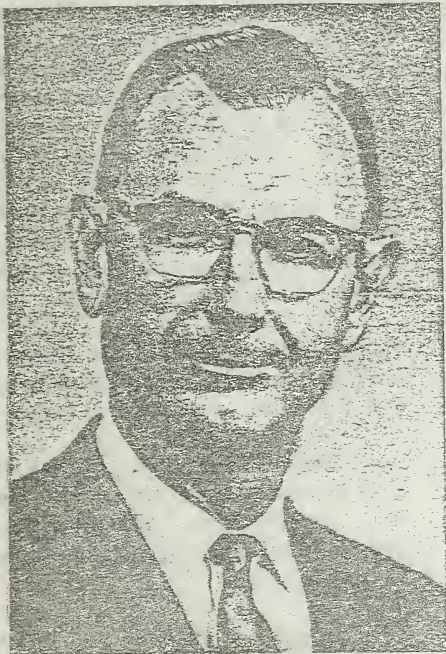

In addition to his regular tour of duty, he has conducted public relations workshops for employees of the Cotton, Dairy, Poultry and Food Distribution Divisions in Illinois, Missouri, Iowa and Washington, D. C.

He planned and directed a highly successful public information program in 1957-1958 through radio, television, newspapers and farm magazines to acquaint the livestock industry and the general public with mutual benefits of the Packers and Stockyards Act.

In 1959, he was assigned to the State Department to handle agricultural information work at the First World Fair of Agriculture in New Delhi, India. Before leaving for India, Bryson was on a two-months' assignment with FAS and the State Dept. as project leader for a group of Japanese business leaders studying agriculture in the United States.

He is a member of Sigma Delta Chi, National Journalism Fraternity; Public Relations Society of America; and the Press Club of Dallas. He serves as Public Information Counselor for the regional office of Civil Defense and for numerous civic and church organizations.

and Cunningham from Oklahoma

Cunningham has devoted more than a quarter of a century of work to USDA, the past 10 years having been spent as Deputy Director of the Dallas ASCS Commodity Office.

Programs are his specialty. In this field, he has shown distinctive leadership in devising successful techniques for key staff members to follow in carrying out the business of CCC.

He has helped accomplish the task of reconcentrating CCC-owned grain, analyzing markets and prices, and carrying out with excellent results CCC's part in the tung oil and many-faceted rice price support programs.

Cunningham started his career in agriculture as a compliance supervisor in the wheat fields of Oklahoma. From there he went to the Oklahoma State ASC Office in Stillwater where he served as farmer-fieldman and staff member for 15 years. He spent two years in Tulsa where he represented PMA on the USDA's field committee which formulated and developed multi-purpose programs for the Arkansas-White-Red River Basins. In 1952, he came to Dallas.

Active in civic affairs and community life, Cunningham is an active member of the Dallas Federal Business Association and the Kiwanis Club of White Rock. He is chairman of the Official Board of the White Rock Methodist Church.
